The NUX Stageman II rechargeable amplifier is the perfect companion for an acoustic-electric guitar when you want to be able to perform anywhere and be heard loud and clear without having to haul around a bunch of gear.

With a large capacity lithium battery, the Stageman II is ready for as long as 4 hours outdoor performing for any musician. It features 2 channels and both are optimized for acoustic guitar and microphone inputs respectively.

The dual-input channels provide you with even more options for gigs or studio recording. Equipped with NUX's latest DSP technology, the Stageman II delivers pure, rich acoustic sound with projection far beyond its size.

The Stageman II has flexible outputs for both stage and recording applications, and is designed for your interface needs. To accentuate your customized sound, Send/Return FX Loop inputs interface with any of your essential effects gear.

Equipped with this creative 2-way high-sensitivity speaker system, the Stageman II delivers incredible sound dynamics. To top it off, our cabinet design features a beveled-angle carefully calculated to provide optimal live sound monitoring.

The Stageman II is loaded with 8 impulse response files: each impulse response file is optimized for the guitar type and the pickup type. The IR file names are included in the guitar profile, optimized guitar type, and the pickup type. Connect the Stageman II with your mobile phone (app) to activate/deactivate the IR function.

The stageman II, comes stock with a dual-footswitch in the package, so you can easily control the built-in Looper and Drum. You can play solo just like with a band!
